SPILL: 15-7078, Taft, Kern County

- On 12/03/15 at 0941 hours the California State Warning Center (CSWC) received a report from Linn Energy advising of a release of 5 barrels (Bbls.) of oil and 100 Bbls. of produced water from a pipeline at an oil well in Taft, Kern County.
- The release was a result of a pipeline that had external corrosion. The spill entered a dry creek bed that leads to flats and no other waterway. A contractor responded to scene for cleanup.
- The CSWC made all appropriate notifications per the Hazardous Materials SOP.

SPILL: 15-7080, San Diego, San Diego County

- On 12/03/15 at 1041 hours the US Navy North Island Port Ops called the CSWC to advise that they had discovered an unknown type of oil had been released from an unknown source at the US Navy North Island Coronado, San Diego, San Diego County.
- The amount released was 150 gallons. The release is contained and was located in a "water basin" near Kilo Pier.
- The CSWC made all appropriate notifications per the Hazardous Materials SOP.

SPILL: 15-7081, Oxnard, Ventura County

- On 12/03/15 at 1102 hours the CSWC received a report from the National Response Center (NRC) advising that 20-30 nickel sized tar balls were observed at Channel Islands Harbor in Oxnard, Ventura County. The source of the tar balls was unknown.
- The CSWC made all appropriate notifications per the Hazardous Materials SOP.

SPILL: 15-7096, Sausalito, Marin County

- On 12/03/15 at 2230 hours the CSWC received a report from the National Response Center (NRC) advising that a barge that sank with another ship attached to it causing the release of an unknown amount of an unknown hazmat in Sausalito, Marin County.
- The CSWC made all appropriate notifications per the Hazardous Materials SOP.
- USCG Sector San Francisco, advised on 12/04/15 at 0545 hours, that the release was not from the barge. The release was from another vessel.
- The USCG Sector San Francisco advises that USCG Pollution responded to scene to check the status of the barge. The status of the barge is the same as was reported on 12/03/15. A salvage company boomed the vessel and is handling the situation.
- The Cal OES Coastal Region Duty Officer (CDO) has been in touch with Marin County OES. They are assessing the scene and will be providing updates to the CDO as they come in. Marin has not activated their EOC.

SITUATION SUMMARY

Caltrans Annual Statewide Exercise

- Caltrans is conducting their annual statewide exercise today, 12/04/15.
- This year's exercise is Floodcast 2015 which follows a scenario similar to ARkStorm. ARkStorm (for Atmospheric River 1000 Storm) is a hypothetical but scientifically realistic "megastorm" scenario developed and published by the United States Geological Survey, Multi Hazards Demonstration Project (MHDP).
- A Cal OES Southern Region Territory Representative is participating in the District 11 Traffic Management Center (TMC) in San Diego.

Caltrans Second Annual Mandatory Emergency Response Drill, San Mateo County

- Caltrans will conduct its second annual Mandatory Emergency Response Drill at the State Route 1 (SR-1) Tom Lantos (Devil's Slide) Tunnels. This will take place overnight starting Friday, 12/04/15 at 2200 hours and will conclude at 0400 Saturday, 12/05/15.
- Lantos Tunnel - Detour Routes:
 - During the tunnel closures, the following detours between Pacifica and Half Moon Bay will be in effect. The California Highway Patrol (CHP) will also help direct motorists:
 - From Pacifica: North on SR-1 to Southbound on Interstate-280 (I-280)
 - From Half Moon Bay: East on State Route 92 onto Northbound I-280
- The emergency management exercise will be a coordinated effort including the CHP, San Mateo County Sheriff's Office, Pacifica Fire and Police Departments, California Office of Emergency Services, CAL FIRE, and other first responders.
- During this exercise, there will be fire simulation, crash simulation, and simulated smoke.

Shelter, Mountain Ranch, Calaveras County

- Due to the incoming storm, a shelter will be open at the Mountain Ranch Community Hall, 8049 Washington St., Mountain Ranch, Calaveras County.
- Hours of operation are: 12/04/15, 1800 hours to 12/05/15, 0700 hours
- This shelter is being sponsored by the Mountain Ranch Community Relief Efforts, a local volunteer agency.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

Weather of Concern

- A few light showers are possible this morning across Northern California, but drier weather will begin to settle in this afternoon.
- High pressure and Santa Ana winds will develop tonight and Saturday for a quick warm-up over portions of Southern California. As a result, high temperatures will rise 5 - 10 degrees above average over much of the region, most notably for inland areas. Santa Anas diminish Sunday, but high pressure will continue unseasonably warm weather through the middle of next week.

Active Weather Warnings, Watches and Advisories by County:

http://www.wrh.noaa.gov/sto/brief/wwa_bc_cal.php

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

Thunder and rain showers will gradually diminish today as a storm system moves eastward. Ridging will bring dry weather later this afternoon and Saturday before another system brings more stormy conditions to northwest California late Saturday into early Sunday. An overall wet weather pattern will continue next week.

Medford Weather:

The cold front lies just west of the Warner Mountains in Modoc County and strong winds are still ongoing along and to the east of that area. Snowfall is expected to continue at a good pace in the mountains of Siskiyou County.

Reno Weather:

Showers over northeast California will taper off today. High pressure brings drier weather Saturday with near average temperatures. A fast-moving system moves through on Sunday, bringing breezy conditions with snow and rain, mainly north of Interstate 80. The storm track retreats into the Pacific Northwest early next week but returns by Wednesday and Thursday.

San Francisco Weather:

Isolated showers will continue across the North Bay during the early morning hours, but are expected to mostly end by daybreak. Dry weather is forecast for the bulk of today and Saturday along with seasonable temperatures. The next weather system will likely bring rain to the northern part of the Bay late Saturday night and Sunday morning. Another system is then expected to arrive around Thursday of next week.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Showers will dissipate today. More weather systems will impact Northern California Sunday and possibly Monday and Thursday next week.

Hanford Weather:

A few light showers will remain possible over the mountains and foothills today as a storm system slowly exits. High pressure and dry conditions will return for the weekend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Scattered showers will continue overnight to the north of Point Conception as a cold front pushes through the area. Cooler temperatures are expected behind the front on Friday with locally gusty offshore winds across Los Angeles and Ventura counties lasting into Saturday. Continued offshore flow will support a return to warm and dry conditions Saturday through next Wednesday.

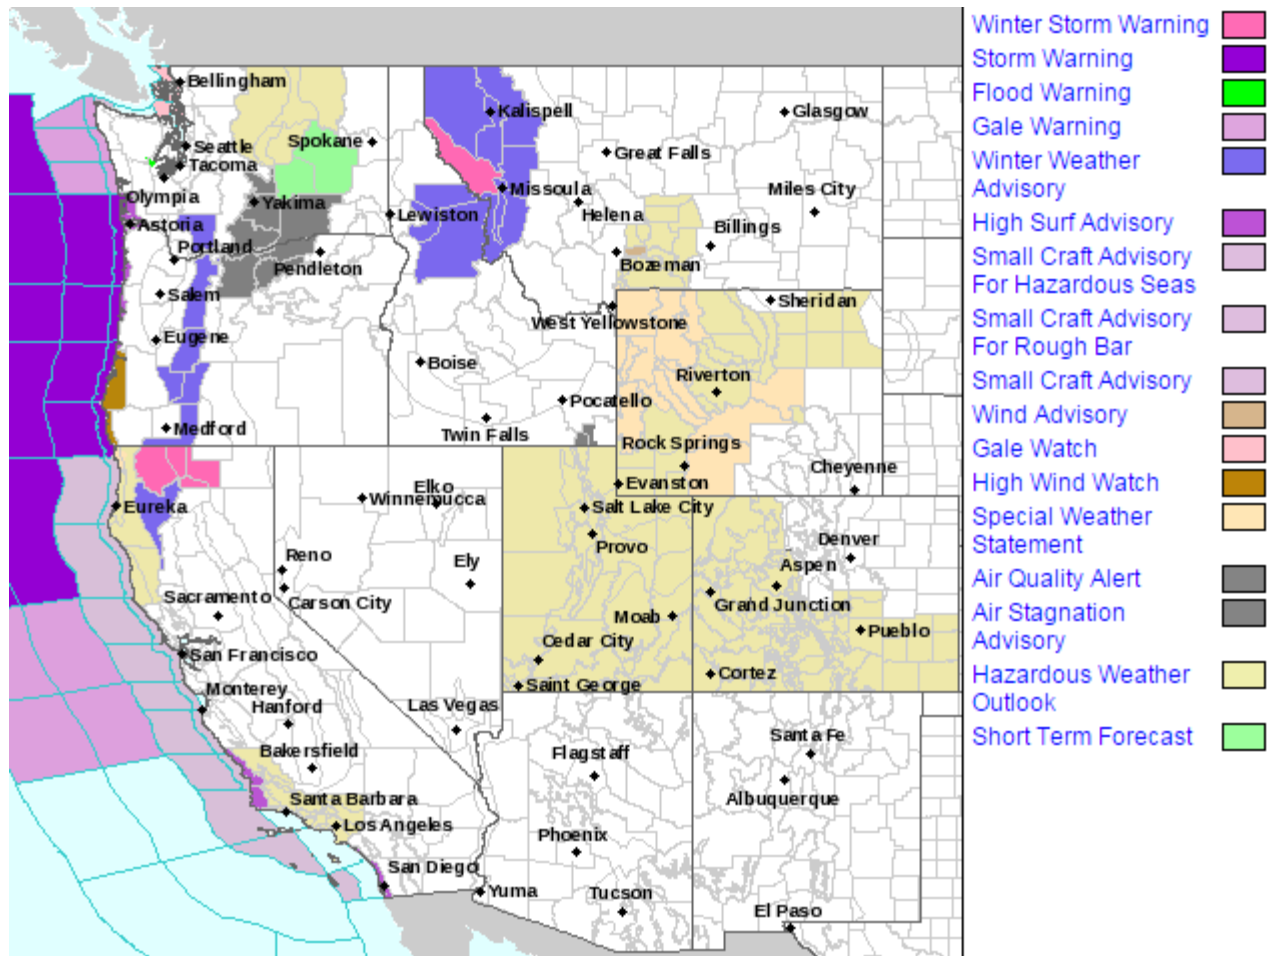

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

A low pressure trough will move through California today. It brings areas of coastal clouds this morning and cooler weather today. High pressure and offshore flow will develop tonight and Saturday for a quick warmup. Areas of strong foothill winds are expected Saturday. High pressure will continue to bring unseasonably warm days through Wednesday. Cool, breezy and wet weather is possible later next week.

Southeast California Weather:

High pressure building into the desert southwest will dominate the weather through the weekend. Mostly clear skies, light winds, and warmer than normal temperatures can be expected through at least the middle of next week. A return to normal temperatures is forecast late in the week.
